TWENTY-THIRD PSALM

The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want.

He maketh me to lie down in green pastures; He leadeth me beside the still waters.

He restoreth my soul; He leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake.

Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me. Thy rod and Thy staff comfort me.

Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever.

*I'd like the memory of me
to be a happy one,
I'd like to leave an afterglow of smiles when life is done.
I'd like to leave an echo whispering
softly down the ways,
Of happy times and laughing times
and bright and sunny days.
I'd like tears of those who grieve, to dry before the sun.
Of happy memories that I leave
when life is done.*

When you have your land for sale,
 Then Judge Minter and Judge MARTIN,
 On the Bench, both just and true;
 If they catch us in transgressions,
 Will correct both me and you.

In the State we had not hoped for,
 When the story had been told,
 With our TEDDY, as our Moses,
 Great majorities were rolled.

Then the Trusts and then the Boodlers,
 Guilty, trembling in their boots,
 Like a dog, to place of safety
 Tucks his tail and quickly scoots.

Then the Solid South was broken;
 Then MISSOURI swung in line;
 Then the star of our new Union
 Rose, and evermore shall shine.

 Shall her bright star ever set?
 You shall hear us shout in chorus, day and shot for a $24 beef. The

of the glass in the windows was broken, and much of the furniture in the upper rooms was damaged.

Some of the tin from the roof was carried a mile or more. The wind rolled the tin up and mashed it together.

The old house in which Mr. McArthur lived before his new residence was built was also wrecked, and his orchard was badly torn to pieces. Thirty-nine trees were destroyed.

The family was in the house when the storm struck it, but strange to say no one was injured.

Mr. McArthur saw the cyclone coming but did not think it was very bad until he saw it strike a hedge fence not very far from the house and tear its way through. Then he became alarmed. Two of his daughters were up stairs and when the wind struck the house they ran down stairs to where their parents were. Mrs. McArthur attempted to open the front door to get outside, but the force of the wind was so great that the door could not be opened. It was fortunate that all remained inside. While the attempt to open the door was being made one of the chimneys came crashing down right in front of it.

The cyclone traveled at a fearful rate of speed and was gone in a minute or less. Mr. McArthur's loss is estimated at $2500. About $1000 damage was done to his residence. He came in town next day to get the builders to go out and repair the damage and B. F. Jones went out with him to see what was needed. Mr. Jones estimated that it would take about 40,000 brick to repair the walls.

In its furious frolic the wind played some strange pranks. As it whirled onward in its course it beat the high grass down in circles as completely as though a mallet had been used, but in the center of these circles the grass was standing untouched. A scantling from the roof of McArthur's house was hurled down through the roof of his barn some distance away. The walls of the L fell inside. The windows of the kitchen were blown in and a door to the stairway blown open, and a tin bucket that had been hanging in the kitchen was found in the room above, all battered up. A looking glass on the wall near where the bucket was, was not moved.

So far as heard from no great damage was done after the storm left McArthur's.

It was one of the most destructive storms that has ever visited this part of the State.

The readers of the REPUBLICAN will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only medicine that cures it.

Eades' Boat Launched.

Capt. A. B. Eades' new boat was launched last Saturday afternoon near the ferry landing. The report that the launching would take place drew a large crowd to the river and people sat or stood around for a long time waiting for it. The boat was built upon the edge of the bank which slopes gradually to the water. A lot of green cottonwood poles were laid from the boat to the river, and the bark was stripped from the upper side of them. When everything was in readiness the props on the river side of the boat were knocked out, the boat settled slowly over on to the slippery poles and then slid down quickly into the water, righted itself and floated out as far as the rope attached would let it. The launching was a success. J. J. Walther, who built the boat, was in charge of the work. He does everything well.

The boat looks to be well built and, in the opinion of those who ought to know, is a good one. It will draw about 16 inches of water when completed, with all machinery aboard. It is 125 feet in length, 20 foot beam, five foot stroke and 10 inch cylinder. The boiler is 22 feet long, and the engines will have the necessary power to propel the boat at a satisfactory rate of speed.

The boiler was put on the boat Monday and all the machinery will be in place soon. It is expected that it will be completed in about three weeks.

The boat will be used by Capt. Eades in the local trade this summer and in the fall he will probably go south.

She leaves 4 sons, 1 daughter, 10 grandchildren, other relatives, and a host of friends, but their loss will be a great one. Her body was brought from Estacada, Ore., to Bolivar, Mo., for burial. The funeral services were conducted at the Baptist Church by the Rev. J. W. Alexander, Tuesday, April 13, at 2 P. M., after which her remains were laid to rest by the side of her husband in Greenwood Cemetery. —Supt. O'Rear's announcement under the head of "The Public School" has just the right ring. There is an utter absence of any attempt at idealism. Instead, there is a plain, practical and unassuming position taken and 'tis our belief that Prof. O'Rear will occupy the position throughout the term.

—Shook, the affable book agent who now occupies room in the county jail because of being unable to prove him self clear of the charge of obtaining money under false pretenses, succeeded in "working" a few of Boonville citizens with his game, though we didn't know it until too late to say last week.
